Summary Before the Sihanouk Era, six villages existed in Pichenda District. The names of these villagers were Poutaing, Bousra, Poutil, Poutoi, Poukrong, and Poutoet. A big family and their relatives came to live near O'srorng Stream. Between 1952 and 1953, a commune was created under the district administration. One of the family members, whose name was Srem Broeut, was chosen to be chief of a commune located near O'srorng Stream. He then named the commune Bousra. Since then until today, the commune has been called Bousra.
